

SPRINGS A NEW CAMPAIGN CRY

Colonel Roosevelt Brings Out Another Slogan.

IN SPEECH AT GLOVERSVILLE

Former President of the United States Declares That the Issue of the Campaign in New York State Is the Workshop Against the Bucketshop. Delivers Many Addresses on His Birthday.

Gloversville, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Theodore Roosevelt brought out a new campaign war cry in his speech here. "The issue is the workshop against the bucketshop," said he, in addressing the crowd which packed the opera house.

Ex-Representative Lucius Littauer of Gloversville introduced the colonel, complimenting him on the "happy fifty-second anniversary of his birth."

In discussing the "new nationalism" Colonel Roosevelt said:

"I wish that you would read my Osawatimie speech. I stand by every word of it."

Colonel Roosevelt came from Fonda, where he made a short speech, to Gloversville by trolley car.

IN THE THICK OF THE FIGHT

Roosevelt Spends His Fifty-second Birthday.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Theodore Roosevelt spent his fifty-second birthday in the thick of the fight for the Republican state ticket. It was a rainy, dreary day, and Colonel Roosevelt had no time to celebrate. He continued his attacks on John A. Dix, Democratic nominee for governor, whom he assailed in his speech here more severely than ever. The colonel also criticized Winfield A. Huppuch, chairman of the Democratic state committee, saying that he was a man who should not be trusted.

Colonel Roosevelt was welcomed everywhere by large crowds. He spoke at Fonda, Johnstown, Gloversville, Amsterdam and Little Falls during the day, returning here to make two speeches.

On Mr. Dix's labor record Colonel Roosevelt said:

Has Not Denied Statements.

"Last Sunday there appeared in the New York American an address written by Mr. Hearst and read by Mr. Shearn, in which it was definitely alleged that Mr. Dix and his partners employed hundreds of men in paper mills, that these men worked twelve hours a day for $1.65 and that when the other paper mills of the country had given their men an eight-hour day and raised their wages to over $2 that Mr. Dix, as a concession, raised the wages of the men 10 cents a day and provided as an offset they should work thirteen hours for five days in the week and twelve hours on the sixth. Mr. Dix has not denied these statements. Unless they were true he would have denied them the minute they were made."

Colonel Roosevelt enumerated the bills benefiting workmen passed during his term as governor of New York and as president and said that Henry L. Stimson, Republican nominee for governor, stood for the continuation of this work.

"How well the worst enemies of labor understood," he went on, "that Mr. Dix is really against this movement is shown by the action of James B. Olney, the head of the Canned Goods Packers' association, who has announced that he intends to support Mr. Dix. Mr. Olney has been the most persistent enemy of the child labor law we have had in New York for years and has done everything he could to secure special exemption of the canning industries from the requirements of the child labor law."

TAFT IS HEAD OF BOY SCOUTS

Accepts Honorary Presidency of National Council.

New York, Oct. 28.—A letter of President Taft, through Secretary Norton, in which he accepts the position of honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, was made public at national headquarters of the Scout movement. The letter says:

"The president directs me to say that he will accept the honorary presidency of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America and thus sustain a similar relation to the movement in the United States as does King George to a similar movement in England and Lord Grey in Canada."

The Boy Scout movement now enrolls 150,000 youths in forty-six states.

Girl Burned to Death.

Storm Lake, Ia., Oct. 28.—A shocking accident near here resulted in the death of the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Williamson. The little girl was helping her mother do the weekly ironing. While near the small gasoline stove, standing on the floor, the child's dress became ignited and burned her body from head to foot. Death resulted in six hours.

Snow in the South.

Kansas City, Oct. 28.—The first snow of the season fell here in the afternoon. It came shortly after 1 o'clock and amounted to but a few scattering flakes.

T. P. O'CONNOR.

Irish Statesman Guest of Archbishop Ireland.

T. P. O'CONNOR IN ST. PAUL

Irish Statesman Guest of Archbishop Ireland.

St. Paul, Oct. 28.—T. P. O'Connor, statesman and leader of the Irish party in the British parliament, was in the city for a few hours on his way East after an extensive tour of the Western portion of the United States and Canada. He was the guest at dinner at the residence of Archbishop Ireland.

At the dinner tendered him Mr. O'Connor took advantage of the opportunity afforded him to advance the Irish cause and make a few remarks as to the outlook of the Emerald Isle for the future. He said that he believed that the time had come when Ireland is to be freed. He placed the limit of time before the millennium for his country at one or two years, possibly as much as four years.

Most of the able minded members of the English parliament, he said, are favorably inclined towards the freedom of Ireland and he stated it as his belief that the liberation would be gained quietly and peaceably in the near future.

Mr. O'Connor, in company with Patrick H. O'Farrell of New York, has been making a trip on the American continent in connection with a wide-spread movement by the Irish faction to create a feeling of sympathy in this country with the desire of the Irish for their own parliament.

DUTCHMAN AIR RECORD HOLDER AT AGE OF 21.

Wuynmalen Enthusiastic Over Two Miles Above Earth Mark.

Henri Wuynmalen, the twenty-one-year-old Dutchman who has captured the height record for aeroplaning, obtained his pilot's license only on Aug. 15. He used a Henry Farman biplane, military type, and might have exceeded the height he attained, 9,121 feet, had not his supply of gasoline become exhausted.

He took one hour and three-quarters to ascend and twelve minutes only to plane down. His registering barometer showed that the successive 500 meter stages (1,640 feet) of the ascent took seven, ten, fourteen, fifteen and thirty minutes. In coming down he descended the first 700 meters (2,290 feet) in two minutes (over thirteen miles an hour), then 1,500 meters (4,920 feet) in six minutes, leaving four minutes for the last 600 meters (1,968 feet).

He says: "After my barometer showed me I had passed the 8,000 feet mark the cold got keener and keener. I felt the blood ooze from my nails into my fur gloves and red pearls of blood formed on my lips. I could taste their slight warmth with my frozen mouth."

"What a marvelous spectacle I had! What extraordinary and superb sensations! All alone, hundreds of yards above the clouds and going just where I would!"

"Another glance at my barometer—2,700 meters. The record is mine. But it is not enough. I long to continue my dream. Alas, the motor stops abruptly and I have to plane down without engine."

"It was all over and I had secured the record of the world. Then came the delight of having my gloves pulled off, my boots replaced by warm slippers, of rolling myself in a blanket and drinking a cup of tea."

WILL ASK FOR LOWER BAIL

Counsel for John Deitz to Appeal to Supreme Court for Reduction.

Milwaukee, Oct. 28.—W. C. Zabel, defending John F. Deitz and family, returned to Milwaukee with the expressed intention of appealing to the supreme court to reduce the bail demanded at Hayward.

"The amounts demanded, $40,000 for a poor backwoodsman, and $10,000 for a twenty-year-old boy, practically deny Deitz his constitutional rights," said the attorney.

"We will make an effort in the meantime, of course, to raise the amount demanded."

TELL STORY OF THEIR JOURNEY

Aeronauts Relate History of Balloon Voyage.

WERE FAVORED BY THE WINDS

America II. Was Lucky in Catching the Eastward Sweep of the Gale Immediately After Crossing the Great Lakes and Entirely Escaped the Center of Still Air Which Becalmed Several of the Contestants.

Quebec, Que., Oct. 28.—Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post, the heroes of the greatest balloon flight on record, arrived here after an experience that was more trying than earlier reports indicated, but mightily pleased because the cup for which they contested remains in America. The first day after leaving the America II. on the banks of the Peribonka river, Mr. Hawley's leg was injured so badly that he was laid up for several hours and he has not yet entirely recovered.

The arrival of the aeronauts here was made the occasion of the first formal welcome back to civilization of the men who for several days were thought to be lost in the dense forests of Northern Canada.

Gebhardt Willich, the American consul, and several prominent men of the city met the party and escorted them to Hotel Frontenac, where an informal dinner was given in their honor. After resting until 11 o'clock Hawley and Post resumed the journey to New York.

"There never was a time," said Mr. Hawley, "when I considered that our lives were actually in danger, but our food supply was very short, and I considered we were very fortunate in reaching Jacques Maltais' cabin in the woods when we did. Taken altogether it was not a disagreeable experience by any means, and best of all the cup for which we made the flight remains at home."

From the data handed to Lewis Spindler as a representative of the Aero Club of St. Louis and the accounts of the journey given by Hawley and Post it is plainly indicated that the America II. was favored in catching the eastward sweep of the gale immediately after crossing the chain of Great Lakes and entirely escaping the center of still air which becalmed several of the contestants.

In describing the earlier part of the journey, up to the time they were lost sight of over the state of Michigan, Mr. Post said:

Pass'd Over Wisconsin.

"We followed a northeasterly course across the Mississippi and Missouri rivers and thence along the Illinois river into the state of Wisconsin. In the morning we were in a portion just north of the city of Milwaukee, but over the lake. We descended so that our rope trailed in the water, but the air was light and we again rose high to get the eastern drift. That carried us up over the lake Point au Sable near Ludington. At that point the wind veered slightly to the north and we passed over Traverse City. From there we rose high again and again got the easterly drift."

"We crossed Lake Huron during the night and were high over Georgian bay and the country immediately north of it. We made our highest altitudes at this stage of the journey. The wind had a strong drift to the northeast and we dropped a trifle lower after passing Lake Nipissing, the wind was whipping us along at a tremendous speed."

"We could see from the character of the country below us that it would be impossible to move a foot so we decided to go on. We again went into the high levels, and at one time our barograph registered 15,000 feet, which is the limit. We then saw in the distance what we supposed was the town of Normand, Lake St. John. This was at about 1:30 p. m. on Wednesday. The country looked favorable for a landing and we decided to come down. The speed at which we were going, however, carried us beyond the place we had picked out. We were carried over a small hill. Considering the circumstances we made a very good landing on what we later learned was to the east of the Peribonka river and near a chain of small lakes."

"A very heavy thunderstorm came up and we slept in the basket that night. The next morning we saw that it was impossible to move the balloon and we packed up for the journey on foot. We slept in the woods Thursday night."

"After we had covered about seven miles along the shore of Lake Chiloga we went into camp early, making it as comfortable as possible by using balsam boughs."

The aeronauts then went to a trapper's shack and thence by canoe to Chicoutimi.

Useless Controversy.

"A man learns to avoid useless controversy as he grows older." "That's right," assented Mr. Enspeck. "Now, when my wife used to say that she could have done better than to marry me I used to argue the question."—Kansas City Journal.

GOVERNOR EBERHART.

Minnesota's Executive in an Automobile Accident.

EBERHART HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

Governor of Minnesota in an Auto Accident.

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 28.—Governor

Adolph O. Eberhart had a narrow escape from death while campaigning in an automobile through Benton county. The governor was hurrying to Sauk Rapids, where he spoke in the evening, when the machine in which he was riding, going at the rate of forty-five miles an hour, overtook a farmer's rig in a narrow stretch of road about two miles from Sauk Rapids. The farmer refused to turn out for the machine, and to prevent an accident the chauffeur turned down into an eight-foot ditch at the side of the road. The auto careened on two wheels and nearly turned turtle, but by the quick action of the driver it was stopped. The governor was uninjured, save for a bad shaking up. The party was badly scared.

A second auto, which was following the governor, turned into the ditch on the opposite side of the road, taking off the hind wheel of the farmer's rig. Another automobile was provided, and Governor Eberhart reached Sauk Rapids in time to deliver his speech.

ENDS NORTH DAKOTA TOUR

Bryan Makes Concluding Speech at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 28.—In the opinion of Colonel W. J. Bryan, North Dakota Republicans will find themselves involved in a rather peculiar situation in "voting it straight" this fall, as a result of the manner in which the congressional and senatorial candidates have been paired off between the stalwart and progressive factions of the party, and as a solution of the problem the commoner urged his big audience in this city to support the Democratic nominees.

Outside of the governorship, of which he spoke briefly in commendation of John Burke, the Democratic nominee, the reference by Bryan to the congressional situation was the only one which might, in a measure, be termed a state issue, except in that he gave unqualified endorsement to the candidacy of Judge Fisk for the supreme bench.

The failure of the Republican party to lower the tariff, Mr. Bryan declared, was reason enough why the voters of North Dakota should send the Democratic nominees to congress.

Mr. Bryan ended his tour of North Dakota here.

TAKES POISON BY MISTAKE

Young Man Nearly Loses Life Through Supposed Headache Tablets.

Kenmare, N. D., Oct. 28.—Mistaking two deadly poisonous tablets for headache tablets nearly cost Oscar Simonson, a Kenmare young man, his life.

Simonson, who is employed in a hardware store, while suffering from a severe headache, took down a box from a shelf in the store, which he thought contained headache tablets. He swallowed two of them, and in a few minutes fell to the floor. He was removed to a hospital, where the physicians say he will recover. An examination of the tablets revealed that they contained seven and three-tenths grains of corrosive sublimate, enough to kill several persons. Prompt work by physicians saved Simonson.

All Old Officers Again Elected.

Kansas City, Oct. 28.—The convention of the Congregational women's board of missions, which has been in session here during the last three days, came to a close at night. All the old officers were re-elected. Denver was chosen as the convention city for next year.

Babe Fatally Scalded.

Marshalltown, Ia., Oct. 28.—As the result of overturning a bowl of hot soup, while sitting in her mother's lap at the table, the ten-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Dodd, living near Zetting, Ia., was scalded and died.

COURT ENJOINS RATE ON LEMONS

KIDNAPPING IS SUSPECTED

Young South Dakota Girl Missing From Her Home.

Gregory, S. D., Oct. 28.—The southern part of Tripp county, near the Nebraska border, has a mystery involving the whereabouts of a young girl who disappeared under circumstances which indicate she was abducted by a rejected suitor, for whom the authorities have since been conducting a vigorous search.

The girl is Marion Whittecar, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. F. M. Whittecar, who conducts a laundry in the town of Colome. The girl had been keeping company with a young man named Fred Wirth, but recently they had a quarrel and separated. To friends Wirth is alleged to have stated that he intended to take the girl to a point in Nebraska, where they would be married, and go to the home of his mother at Verdere, Neb., but the quarrel, it is believed by friends of the girl, would prevent her being a party to an elopement.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of young Wirth, but the officers have been unable to get any trace of either Wirth or the girl and a more widespread search is being made.

GOOD ROADS ORGANIZATION

Effected at a Meeting Held at Aberdeen, S. D.

Aberdeen, S. D., Oct. 28.—As a result of the good roads convention in session here, which has adjourned, the permanent organization is to be known as the South Dakota Good Roads league, which was effected with the following officers:

President, A. E. Chamberlain, Brookings, conductor state farming institutions; vice president, E. C. Isenhardt, Redfield; secretary and treasurer, E. A. Mather, Mitchell. A vice president will also be appointed from each county. A committee will draw up a good roads law to present to the next legislature. Among the speakers was C. E. Dodge, a government expert on good road building.

DRIVERS' STRIKE SPREADS

Assumes Serious Aspect From New Jersey to Manhattan.

New York, Oct. 28.—The strike of express wagon drivers and helpers spread from the New Jersey waterfront to Manhattan and simultaneously assumed a more serious aspect.

Service was almost halted at both the Grand Central and West Shore stations in this city and the threat of a general strike in an effort to tie up the whole metropolitan district was made by officers of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. There was further rioting during the day, following the arrival of strikebreakers from New York in Jersey City.

Involved.

Two country negroes from the same town met at the corner of Thirty-second and Bull streets recently, and the following conversation ensued:

"Howdy, Br'er Simmons! When yo' gwine to come back home?"

"I'm feeling right smart, Br'er Jackson. How's yo' self? But my name ain't Simmons no mo'."

"Dat so?"

"No, sir. Ain't yo' done hear dat sence I came to Chatham county I done call myself Caesar Robinson 'cause I done become involved wid another wife yere?"—Savannah News.

Gives Temporary Victory to the Railroads.

GOES TO COMMERCE COURT

Circuit Tribunal Decides There Are Grave and Serious Doubts as to the Validity of an Order of the Interstate Commerce Commission and Leaves It for a Comprehensive Trial Before the Commerce Court.

St. Paul, Oct. 28.—An interlocutory injunction restraining the enforcement of the order of the interstate commerce commission for a blanket rate on lemons shipped from the Pacific coast was granted in the United States circuit court here. The order of the court, which was brief, enjoined the enforcement of the commission's order until the matter is brought before the new federal commerce court.

Following the order of the court is an opinion per curiam, which briefly summarizes the contentions of the railroads and commission and gives, in a general way, the two reasons for withholding further action on the rate case until the action can be fully decided by the judicial tribunal recently created.

A new question of law, involving the right of the interstate commerce commission to establish a blanket rate for a territory embracing practically two-thirds of the country, is given as the reason for not making further investigation of the case at this time and leaving it for a comprehensive trial before the commerce court.

The order of the court is a victory, for the time being, for the railroads which brought the action to prevent the blanket rate from going into effect. The date on which it was to be effective was Nov. 1 and the decision of Judges Sanborn, Van Devanter and Adams, before whom the application was heard, leaves the rates as they now stand until either of the parties shall bring the question before the new court.

The order states that the commission and their agents shall be restrained and enjoined from enforcing the order and the injunction shall go into effect immediately upon the filing by the railroads of a bond for $50,000 to cover losses that may accrue from the continuance of the injunction.

Question an Important One.

Without stopping to enumerate the contentions of the commission, the opinion states that the "court holds such grave and serious doubts as to the validity of the order in question that they believe its enforcement should be suspended until the question can be considered adequately and thoroughly determined. The objections turn chiefly on a question of law that is new and has an importance far beyond the bearing which it has upon the present application. The order which we make is interlocutory and the final hearing must be before the commerce court."

In bringing the action asking for the injunction against the enforcement of the order of the interstate commerce commission there were about forty railroads joined as complainants. The number includes almost every road west of the Mississippi.

The main contentions of the plaintiffs were that the claims of the commission in making the order were based almost entirely upon the fact that the rates now charged by the railroads precluded competition with lemons shipped to the Atlantic coast from Sicily. They maintained that the fact that competition was strangled by the high rates from the West coast should have no weight in the matter, but that the question of whether the rate was exorbitant or not and whether the railroads were charging more than the cost of shipment would warrant should have been the grounds upon which to base their right to make such an order. They also claimed that a blanket rate could not equitably be made on lemons from the Pacific coast to points in the East. They are widely separated, and conditions differ to an extent such as to prevent a flat rate, they claimed.

FACES TRIAL FOR SHOOTING

North Dakota Man Bound Over to Circuit Court.

Jamestown, N. D., Oct. 28.—Dick Willis, charged with shooting Wesley Gardiner with intent to kill, will have to stand trial in the district court, for at the preliminary hearing he was bound over. His bonds were fixed at $1,000, which he has been unable to furnish.

Another case that promises sensational developments has come to light in the arrest of Anna Sterritt on a charge of bigamy.

In connection with her arrest, Gardiner has also been placed under arrest on a charge of breach of peace for threatening to kill her.

Football Player Dies.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 28.—L. B. Palmer of Duluth, Minn., acting captain of the Cornell freshman football team, died at the Cornell infirmary from supposed internal injuries received while playing football. The boy was injured on Oct. 18 in a practice scrimmage, but the attending physician did not think the injury dangerous.

Mrs. F. Marti, St. Joe, Mich., says Foley's Honey and Tar saved her little boy's life. She writes: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar in which I gave great faith. It cured the cough as well as the choking and gagging spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar has many times saved us much trouble and we are never without it in the house." DYNAMO ALTERS FLOWERS' HUES

British Scientists Find New Use For Electricity

ALSO ACCELERATES GROWTH.

Wheat Yield Increases One-third With Assistance of Current, Experiment Proves, and Even Fish Develop Amazingly When Vital Sparks Penetrate Their Ponds.

The latest experiments in applying the electric current to growing plants and flowers, as reported by Professor J. H. Priestley of the botanical laboratory at Bristol university, England, tend to show that the current not only accelerates the growth, but also in some way improves their health and makes them stronger and better able to resist disease.

The precise action of the current is not yet fully understood. There is a difference in the color of electrified and non-electrified growing wheat, the former being a darker green in consequence of the plants obtaining more nitrogen from the air.

Increase is Remarkable.

The increase in yield of wheat under electrical cultivation amounted in one case to almost one-third.

The current, as a rule, is conducted by wire from the generating station, or power house, to the field and there raised to a very high voltage before distribution over the field on wires attached to poles ten feet high. Escaping from the wire to the ground, the current passes through the plants and so completes the circuit.

In cloudy or foggy weather there is a greater current escaping from the wires. The cost of the electrical stimulation is not as great as that of stimulation supplied by the use of phosphate or other ordinary enrichers.

Modifies Floral Colors.

It has been found that the current somewhat modifies the colors of flowers, and this fact is being taken advantage of by greenhouse cultivators, who have begun to use the electric current quite extensively.

The current has been applied to a private fish pond in Sussex with reported quickening results on the growth of the finny residents, but these experiments have not progressed far enough for definite scientific results to be announced.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Everlasting Bricks.

Once made, a brick is practically indestructible. Nearly every brick that has ever been made by man from the beginning of time is still in existence on this earth. The men who made and laid them and who directed these operations have long since been gathered into dust. Some of them have doubtless contributed in their bodies to the making of more bricks. But the steadfast and enduring square of baked clay persists and will until the heavens and earth are shriveled like a scroll.

Rumored 100 Saloons Will be Closed

AFFECTING EVEN TWIN CITIES

"Pussyfoot" Johnson Liable to Issue
Dread Order Almost any Minute

The Superior Telegram features a Bemidji special dated October 27th to the effect that "developments within the past few days indicate that the government has perfected revised plans relative to prohibiting the sale of liquor in northern Minnesota and that a blow is to be struck—how soon no one will admit—which will close the doors of more than a hundred saloons.

"Accurate information is at hand, tending to confirm the many reports that a sweeping order to close all places in the Indian territory even to the affected part of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

"Now comes a statement direct from W. E. Johnson, who has had charge of enforcing the Indian bureau treaty, in which he leaves little room for speculation as to what he proposes to do.

"You can take it from me that those Cass Lake saloonkeepers who are so jubilant over the fact that they are still doing business have been crowing a bit too soon.

"The Cass Lake dealers and all saloon men in the forbidden territory will not be selling liquor very much longer. I will not say when this final action will be taken, but those interested may as well be prepared to hear something drop any day."

"These plain words from Mr. Johnson seem to confirm all the apprehension felt for the safety of the saloon.

"Mr. Johnson would not specify what towns would be hit by the government lightning, and when he reiterated that "all" would be included there seemed to be no necessity of his being more specific.

"Bemidji is thus included and thirty saloons now doing business here would be put out of business."

Don't Want Taxes Raised

To the Editor:—

I noticed a communication in your current weekly edited by C. C. Andrews, state forestry commissioner, of St. Paul, recommending voters to vote for "the 1-15 mill tax amendment to the constitution for reforestation," which he says, "if adopted about $72,000 will be annually raised with which the forestry board must buy at not over $3 per acre, forestry land for the state and produce and maintain forestry thereon," etc. This is known as amendment No. 5. I feel that this is a matter of public concern and that it should be voted down. Let the state protect what land it has already—many millions of acres, before expending $72,000 each year or more land. Besides it is getting thousands of acres yearly from forfeited taxes. But even if the cause were good, what sane man is going to deliberately vote to increase taxes anyway. I would like to vote for an amendment to compel a reduction each year instead to increase them. I shall also vote no as to proposed amendment No. 6, which proposes to exempt a few millions of acres of private lands from taxes—reforested lands. Now wouldn't that be fine to vote a new line of taxes to be paid every year of about $72,000—on one hand and to exempt from all taxes a few millions of acres on the other, wonder that any sane man—a taxpayer—can vote yes on either of these two proposed amendments, 5 and 6.

PANAMA CANAL GATES.

Ordered Made by a Pittsburg Concern.
Of Gigantic Size.

The McClintic-Marshall Construction company of Pittsburg, which has the $5,000,000 contract for making 60,000 tons of structural steel work for the Panama canal, has finished installing 100,000 worth of specially made machinery for the job and will begin the work at once. Vice President H. H. McClintic, who will have charge of the work, has given out the first specifications made public on the large canal gates. In part he said:

"There will be forty-six locks or sets of gates in the entire canal. Each lock will consist of two gates or leaves hung from the sides of the canal, meeting snugly in the center of the canal when closed. Each leaf will weigh about 600 tons and will be 65 feet wide by 77 feet high and 7 feet thick. They will, of course, not be solid, but will be diaphragm work and have air chambers to assist in lightening the leaf.

"There will be ninety-two of these leaves, each to be composed of eight plates or girders, with a world of apogon work, all to be covered by a steel sheathing, 7.16 inches thick at the top, gradually thickening until it reaches 13.16 inches at the bottom. "Hanging these gates will be quite a task," continued Mr. McClintic. "They will be set in a pit at the bottom of the lock and will be held in place by a yoke of massive design at the top. There will be twenty of these sets of gates at Gatun, twelve at Pedro Miguel, and the remainder, fourteen, at Miraflores. Only one-half of one of our shops at point will be given over to the fabrication of the structural steel work of the Panama canal."

MINNEAPOLIS SYMPHONY

Brainerd to Hear the Great Minneapolis Musical Organization
Nov. 17th

An announcement that will be received with genuine satisfaction by the people of this city, is the engagement of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra for a concert November 17 under the auspices of the Ladies Musical Club.

This great organization, under the conductorship of Emil Oberhoffer has won a foremost position among the great orchestras of this country and of the world. Today the orchestra, though only in its eighth year, is ranked by leading critics with the Boston, Theodore Thomas, New York and Philadelphia orchestras, and when it is desired to know which orchestras form the trio of superlative excellence throughout the country the answer will be that it comprises the Boston, the Theodore Thomas and the Minneapolis Symphony.

Organized seven years ago under the leadership of Emil Oberhoffer, the career of this orchestra has been one of remarkable advance in size, personnel and ability. It has now reached an invulnerable position among the greatest orchestras of the country. Early in its existence the liberal supporters of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra recognized the soundness of Mr. Oberhoffer's principle that a good orchestra cannot be made from eight or ten capable musicians, sprinkled among fifty or sixty players of mediocre attainments. Realizing that a perfect whole can be made only of perfect parts, Mr. Oberhoffer has employed only talented and intelligent musicians for his orchestra, drawing them from nearly every well known orchestra in Europe and America, and it is this liberal policy, combined with the forceful and artistic personality of the conductor, that has placed the Minneapolis orchestra at the head of western musical organizations. With such a foundation to work upon, and with Mr. Oberhoffer's exceptional and apparently intuitive talent for attractive program construction, it is little wonder that Minneapolis is blessed musically as few cities in this country are, or that her citizens appreciate this blessing to the extent of gladly subscribing an annual guaranty fund of fifty-five thousand dollars for the maintenance of the orchestra and of crowding the big Auditorium, with its seating capacity of nearly three thousand persons, at every concert.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"Daniel Boone on the Trail"

No line of plays is being so warmly received this season throughout the country as the pieces that portray the life on the western frontier, or the life of the pioneer in the days that were fraught with hardships and danger. Our production that is being accorded a welcome everywhere, is the historical drama, "Daniel Boone on the Trail." This piece is elaborately staged and elegantly costumed, and produced by as clever a cast as was ever assembled. Among the essential requirements for the proper presentation of the piece is the presence of the wild beasts that infested our forests in those days of long ago, and that constantly menaced the safety of the settlers, and those dearest to him. These the company carry to lend their aid that the age which the piece tells of may be more realistic. The wolves appear in the light when Daniel Boone has to save his daughter from them. Manager Harris has also added a pioneer band and orchestra. The special features used in this production are to be seen daily upon the streets as a free feature. At the opera house Monday, Oct. 31st. Prices 25, 35, 50 and 75 cents.

EXHLOration WOR ON THE RANGE

A List of Some of the New Drills Operating in the Territory

DRILLS IN VICINITY OF CITY

Cement Shaft Being Sunk by N. Y. Foundation Co. at the Interstate Mine

The activity recently shown on the Cuyuna iron range as evidenced by the numerous placing of options, the rush of real estate transfers and the placing of numerous drills in the territory shows conclusively that the faith in the Cuyuna range is justified and that events will soon show that Crow Wing county has one of the richest ranges in Minnesota.

In section 11-46-29 the Rogers-Brown Ore Co., the pioneers of the range, are operating six churn drills. These drills were recently placed here. To the south of them and near Iron-ton the Helmer Exploration Co., has put a churn and two diamond drills at work. William Seafeld is the superintendent of this company.

In section 10-46-29 the New York Foundation Co. is busily engaged in sinking a heavy concrete shaft of the same size and dimensions as the shaft at the Armour mine in Crosby. The new mine is known as the Interstate mine and is on ground which the Rogers-Brown Ore Co. has leased from the C. M. Hill Lumber Co., of Saginaw, Mich. The Helmer Exploration Co. is operating a drill in 11-44-31.

The Duluth Diamond Drilling Co. has shipped two drills to Merrifield, a short distance north of Brainerd and is working in the region of the Mississippi river.

C. W. Potts, of Superior, Wis., on Monday shipped a churn drill to the range and it is being set up to operate in section 9-46-29 near June lake. It is believed that drilling will establish the fact that this tract lies in the rich ore belt.

Gaylord & Guith, who formerly operated on the old Mesabe are working five drills in the vicinity of Crow Wing, about eight miles south of Brainerd.

The Cuyuna-Mille Lacs Iron Co., whose directors include Messrs. John Helmer, Ernest LeDue, W. H. Lock, Otto J. Wendlandt, W. H. Denney and E. J. W. Donahue, of Duluth, and James F. Dykeman, of Brainerd, is drilling on section 20-44-28. They have recently acquired lands in the south-east quarter of that section, and have three drills at work.

What has been mentioned by no means includes all the drills on the Cuyuna range. Over 100 drills are actively at work wresting the secrets of the evidence of iron ore deposits from the earth, and day by day the boundaries of the range are being extended and proved up.

Republican Judicial Candidate Here

From the International Falls Echo—Thos. Keefe, of Bagley, republican candidate for the office of judge of the district court, paid our city another visit this week, and reports conditions throughout the district very favorable to him. While he will be unable to see all voters, he is making an effort to do so as far as possible, instead of leaving his candidacy altogether to party leaders in the various sections of the district.

As some of our readers are not acquainted with Mr. Keefe's character and standing as a man and professionally, we have taken the trouble to learn the following facts concerning him: Mr. Keefe was born at Northfield, Minn., in the year of 1874. He was graduated from the high school of that place, and afterwards attended Carlton college, following which he served as principal of the high school at Montgomery, Minn., for three years. He then read law and was admitted to the bar in 1898, taking up the practice of law at Fertile, remaining there for five years, when he removed to Bagley, the county seat of Clearwater county, and where he still resides. Mr. Keefe is therefore well educated, and he has the reputation of being an able lawyer, by the practice of which he has succeeded in acquiring considerable of this world's "goods." He is deeply interested in farming, having a section of land five miles west of Bagley stocked with sheep. Mr. Keefe was married in 1896 and has a family of three children. He stands high in the estimation of those who know him, and at home is considered a bright lawyer and an upright citizen.

DIED SUDDENLY THIS MORNING

James F. O'Connor, Long a Resident of Brainerd, Died at his Home
122 First Ave.

James F. O'Connor, aged 44 years, long a resident of Brainerd, died suddenly this morning at his home, 122 First street, Northeast. He took sick on Sunday morning and although several doctors were in attendance and everything possible was done to save him, he expired suddenly at four o'clock this morning of kidney trouble.

He leaves surviving him his wife, who was formerly Miss Kathleen R. Toohy, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Toohy, and to whom he was married on May 1, 1886 in Brainerd. The children are James M. O'Connor who has come from International Falls to attend the funeral; Myrtle, Clifford, Chester, Aileen, Lucille and Bernice. Two brothers, Patrick and Charles A. reside respectively at Anoka and Minneapolis. His sisters reside in St. Paul and are Miss Lucille O'Connor, Mrs. R. J. O'Connell, Mrs. B. F. Gass and Mrs. W. B. Brawley. The deceased was engaged as a lumberman and was well known in Brainerd and its vicinity. He was a member of Court Mississippi of the United Order of Foresters, and also belonged to the Catholic church. Arrangements for the funeral will be announced later.

DEATH OF OLD RESIDENT

Joseph Grondin Died of Apoplexy
This Morning—Had Family of 15 Children

Joseph Grondin, aged 66 years, an old resident of Brainerd, died at his home in West Brainerd at two o'clock this morning of apoplexy. His wife was not aware of his death until she felt the cold hands of her husband. He had been employed yesterday in putting up storm windows and it is believed that the over exertion tended to excite his heart and cause his death. Coroner Gibson viewed the remains and came to that conclusion.

The deceased leaves a wife and ten children. The funeral arrangements have not been announced. The body at present is at the McNamara undertaking parlors.

M. B. A. Notice

All members of the M. B. A. are requested to meet at Elks hall at 1:30 Saturday afternoon to attend the funeral of our late member, Mrs. W. J. Sullivan. Services will be held at the Methodist church at half past two o'clock. COMMITTEE.

BREAKS COLD IN FEW MINUTES

Proves Quinine is Never Effective in the Cure of a Severe Cold or the Grippe

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach, limbs or any part of the body.

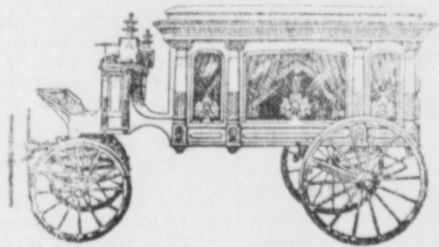

It promptly relieves the most miserable neuralgia pains, headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects, as a 25 cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

MAINE CAUSES BIG SHAVE.

Texas Loses Thirty Years' Beard When Democrats Win.

The result of the Maine election has had its effect in Texas, Jap Skein, a well known citizen of Corpus Christi, was so firm in the belief when Maine elected a Democratic governor thirty years ago that the state would continue in the Democratic column that he made a solemn vow he would never have his hair cut until it again went Democratic.

He kept his pledge. His flowing locks, sixteen inches long, gave him a picturesque and venerable appearance. When news of the result in Maine reached him he went at once to a barber and was shorn to the scalp.

The locks were made into a braid and are on exhibition in the show

CONCRETE SPHINX ARISES ON BANK OF ILLINOIS RIVER

Black Hawk, Erected by Sculptor Lorado Taft, Again Overlooks Former Hunting Grounds of the Sacs and Foxes.

Statue is 48 Feet High and Stands on 250 Foot Cliff, Placing It on Scale of Goddess of Liberty and the Pilgrims.

By the magic of the sculptor Black Hawk of early Illinois fame has come back a second time to overlook his former dominion from the cliffs of the Rock river.

What may become one of the most famous statues in the world stands above Eagle's Nest, across the river from Oregon, Ill. It has been in process of making three years and is now near completion. The Indian figure, which is forty-eight feet high, stands facing the south, looking down the river. The head and profile and folded arms appear perfect in detail as they are outlined against the sky and forest from many viewpoints around the country.

The claim of the statue to fame lies in three things: First, any one who runs—even any one who auto—may read its message. Those who are rushing in by auto and steam cars and motorboats stop or turn to look as long as they can and fall into a reverie over the former occupancy by the red man of the places they are now in.

The statue's great size, forty-eight feet, without counting either the artificial base or the natural rock foundation 250 feet high on which it is placed, puts it on a scale with the Goddess of Liberty in New York harbor and the great statue of "The Pilgrim" on the New England coast.

The third and greatest claim to fame is that it is built to be permanent. And it is believed that it will outlast the sphinx, the pyramids and even the stones of the domes.

Concrete Key to Future.

It is utilitarian concrete which has unlocked the door to a future which is hoped will make the statue of Black Hawk overtake the sphinx in age by enduring after time has effaced that grim figure.

So far concrete has not been applied to the art of real sculpture in modern times. Fountains and pergolas and outdoor architecture to which artistic scrolls and designs are added have been made of it. Temporary figures have been erected at exhibitions in which some form of concrete has been used haphazard. In the ruins of Rome the Parthenon statues are found to have been made of it.

When he was on a tour in Europe Lorado Taft, the Chicago sculptor, discovered this, and there came to him his great idea for the means of making an enduring statue. With the process in mind it was not long before an adequate subject presented itself. For thirteen years he has had his summer home and studio at Eagle's Nest, on the Rock river. Standing for the hundredth time at the highest point of the cliff and looking south at the land and river, he never failed to remember that it was from here that Black Hawk was finally driven out of Illinois.

Romantic Story of Black Hawk.

Black Hawk, chief of the Sacs and Foxes, fought on the English side in the war of 1812. He saw sooner than anybody else that the whites would take all the Indian's happy hunting grounds from him. He tried every thing from war to treaties to check the whites' advance. As he grew old he became more attached to his home along the Rock river and fought against removal to the Iowa reservation by the government. He even tried living in peace with the whites, but he had achieved such a reputation that any depredations that any Indian committed were laid at his tepee door.

Finally he and his people were driven across the Mississippi by Uncle Sam's soldiers. After that, as an old man, Black Hawk petitioned the government that he might go back and view his old domains on the Rock river. Many members of the tribe were brought with him, and suddenly there was panic among the whites. Whether it was intentional from the first on the part of the Indians or the outcome of suspicion, a war was precipitated. Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis both fought with the whites, and Black Hawk was made a prisoner. Afterward he was ignominiously shown around the country after being taken to Washington to see President Jackson.

Reincarnation in Concrete.

"Now in concrete he again surveys his domain with an air of immutable disdain," as one artist puts it. "Black Hawk is my greatest foolishness," Mr. Taft said the other day. "I did not study any one type or race of Indians," he said. "It is a composite of the Foxes and the Sacs, the Sioux and Mohawks, and, in short, it represents the Indian personality. I have left off the usual Indian trappings—the feather and buckskin and other conventional signs. There is even a hint of the old Roman in the face, which was necessary to make it suggest a spirit unconquered while still the conquered race. To be suggestive rather than direct is what I aim at—to do that is the great joy of the sculptor."

When the auto gets to the intersection of Fifth and Washington streets in the little town of Oregon he stops to wonder at the glimpse he catches of the great white statue across the river. When he crosses the long bridge over to the cliff he gets the full front view of it. Riding on the river road, it towers above him on the mountain. When the trains pass over the railroad bridge through Oregon the people on the observation car crowd out on the platform to see this wonder of the green hills. Motorboats fly up and down the river, and from the winding course of this there are many surprise views from far up the river. When the leaves are off the trees the statue can be seen for twenty miles. From the standpoint of association it is the gateway through which the Indian passed on one of his last trips west.

The exact site was obtained by much experiment. First a rough twenty foot model was made and set up, but it was found that height and distances were so great that it had to be enlarged and placed on a more prominent part of the cliff.

For the foundation thirteen feet of soil had to be removed before the bed rock was struck. Here the top of a natural ledge of stone was reached. The ledge, thirty feet deep, is formed of a succession of stones, which have the appearance of being built artificially as they show on the river bluff.

Feat in Expert Engineering.

There have been difficulties in the engineering part, as a great concrete statue has never been made before. A gallon of water a minute was used in mixing the concrete, and a motor had to be installed and a windlass for getting it up. The first model was of plaster six feet high. This was enlarged by careful measurement to a frame of scannings around an "elevator shaft." When the whole figure had been framed in lumber the surface was made by stretching wire netting over the timbers, over these forms burlap was fastened with nails. Two pointing machines had to be built, one for the head and one for the body.

The modeling was done by the scannings and the arms shortened here and there until the proportions of the model were reached. Later the burlap was painted over with plaster of paris, giving the appearance of a plaster cast. Meanwhile the head was modeled in clay and cast by the usual process, the piece mold being saved for use again in casting the concrete. Now the mold is being made in plaster around the model.

The model is about three inches thick and required over ten tons of plaster, with many timbers for support. When complete everything will be taken out of the mold and the space filled with the concrete, all but a shaft seven feet in diameter, running the entire length of the figure. An opening back of the folded arms of the statue will allow of a man passing up the shaft and looking out of invisible windows thus formed.

An assistant had the mechanical work in charge, and a corps of three men was kept busy ever since work started on the concrete. During the first year, which the first measurements were being taken, the wooden structure blew over in a cyclone. Then a whole year's work had to be done over again. It has been a labor of love with Mr. Taft and the work for work's sake.

The expense of the undertaking has been borne by him, although a whole colony of artists at Eagle's Head and Mr. Heckman, on whose land it stands, are more than anxious to assist.

Every care for the solidity of the structure has been taken by consulting engineers, and the following are some of the items in their calculations:

Cubic contents of statue, 2,355 square feet.
Total weight of statue and foundations, 536,750 pounds.
Total maximum wind pressure acting on statue, 28,900 pounds.
Overturning effort of wind pressure, 673,785 foot pounds.
Total moment of resistance to wind pressure acting through center of gravity on eighteen foot base, 4,890,350 foot pounds.
The base of the statue is of concrete, 18 by 18 by 3 feet.

What will become of the artist's dream of an enduring American statue if speculators get hold of the land is the natural question asked. The best hope that this will not happen is in the fact that Wallace Heckman, attorney for the University of Chicago, is owner of the land on which the monument stands and for a hundred acres around. It is his desire to hold it during his lifetime as a tract of natural forest, and his enthusiasm in the perpetuation of the statue is so great that it is believed that he will do everything in his legal power to make it enduring.

POLICE HAVE AERIAL PATROL

Bordeaux Roundsman Covers Route Pleasantly and Quickly.

The first aerial police party has made its appearance. During the Bordeaux aviation week an airship was chartered by the police, and shortly before President Fallieres was due to arrive the chiefs of the special detective service went up with Aviator Vandenberg to satisfy themselves that all the police posts were duly occupied.

The experiment was a complete success, for ocular observation gave them in a few minutes far more detailed information than could have been secured by ordinary methods.

CONSCIENCE.

Conscience is justice's best minister. It threatens, promises, rewards and punishes and keeps all under its control. The busy must attend to its remonstrances, the most powerful submit to its reproach and the angry endure its upbraidings. While conscience is our friend all is peace, but if once offended farewell to the tranquil mind.—Mary Wortley Montagu.

FRANCE PRAISES HORSEFLESH DIET

Poverty and Science Fast Overcome Popular Prejudice.

HOSPITALS LIKE SUBSTITUTE.

Eaten Raw by Patients as Being Tender and Easily Digested—Donkeys and Mules Also Utilized—Freedom From Tuberculosis Strong Point, Say Physicians.

The dearth of meat in nearly all European countries has revived the controversy about horseflesh, which, with black bread, is still alleged by free traders to be the staple food of the working classes in protected countries. In the Paris Journal Dr. Pascal warmly recommends horseflesh, which he says is very good and relatively cheap.

"The prejudice against horseflesh has had to give way before now to poverty, scarcity and hunger," says the doctor. "The first horse butcher's shop in Paris opened in 1866, and there are now 800 in France, of which 550 are in Paris and its vicinity."

There are two special slaughterhouses in the department of the Seine, and 60,175 horses, 1,141 donkeys and 463 mules were killed there in 1907. One-third of the horseflesh in Paris is, however, made into sausages, which suggests that there is still a very strong prejudice against horseflesh as such.

Age Only Drawback.

There is only one real objection to the use of horseflesh, thinks Dr. Pascal. The animals that are slaughtered are old and worn out instead of being well fed with a view to the meat market.

The public health department in Paris buys every day upward of 1,700 pounds of horse meat to be chopped up and eaten raw by delicate patients at the hospitals. Horse meat is said to be not indigestible, and the flesh, even of aged animals, is tender.

"Vieux boeuf, mauvaise viande—vieux cheval, bonne viande," was a saying often repeated by a famous French authority on food values. So rarely is tuberculosis found in horse meat that out of 53,000 animals slaughtered in 1905 only four were rejected on that account, while in the following year out of 57,000 only seven were pronounced unfit for food for the same reason.

Cooks Seize Profits.

Cooks almost invariably do the marketing in Paris, and observers have sometimes amused themselves with watching the number of those who supply themselves at shops that only sell horse, mule and donkey meat, buying well trimmed joints for less than they would pay at the regular butchers, but no doubt charging their employers as much as beef would have cost, the difference in the taste never being detected.

Choice pieces of horse meat fetch from about 10 cents a pound wholesale and may be sold in the retail trade for as much as 18 cents a pound. Donkey meat and mule meat have their own special patrons, and the votaries of horseflesh firmly believe that if horses were treated like oxen and well fed horse meat would soon be generally preferred to beef.

SUPPORTED HERSELF AT 106

But Vienna Woman Finally Died Six Years Later.

Frau Katharina Lustig, the oldest woman in Austria, died recently in Vienna in her one hundred and twelfth year. She belonged to a Hungarian Jewish family in which longevity was hereditary.

Her grandmothers on the mother's and father's side attained their one hundred and thirtieth and one hundred and tenth years respectively. Two of her sisters lived to be over ninety, and she leaves two children who are well over eighty.

Her husband, who was a tailor, died some years ago at 105, after they had celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of their wedding. After his death Frau Lustig maintained herself until she was 106 by covering umbrellas and was able to see and thread needles up to the last without spectacles.

She attributed her long life to early rising and to drinking a glass of beer with all meals instead of tea or coffee.

RADIUM SUPPLY GROWS, AND PRICE DROPS TO $2,100,000

Cornwall Mines Found to Contain the Precious Substance.

Sir William Ramsay in a recent London lecture stated that radium now costs $2,100,000 an ounce, the drop in price from $3,000,000 being due to the work in the pitchblende mines of Cornwall, which is showing satisfactory results that a continuous supply of radium is absolutely assured.

In reference to the work at the mines Sir William announces that up to the present time 550 milligrams of pure radium have been produced at the Trenwith mines, near St. Ives. The process of the extraction of radium from the pitchblende employed by Sir William is so rapid that the amount of radium secured by this method in two months would take a year by the latest method used on the continent.

A year ago there was about a quarter of a pound of radium in the world. A radium bank has existed for some time in Paris. Recently one was established in London, and similar institutions are being founded in other great cities. These banks lend the precious substance to scientists and physicians. The cost is enormous. As much as $200 has been charged for the use of 100 milligrams for a single day.

THE coat collar is one of the things that make a hit with you when you wear Clothcraft. It sits up to your collar as if molded to it.

But it is only one of the Clothcraft points of superiority. There's the style—the shape—the non-breakable coat front—the non-sagging pockets.

And there's the guaranty of the maker—and ourselves—that Clothcraft is pure All-Wool—nothing else.

Yet you get your Clothcraft suit at $10 to $25. Wouldn't it be foolish to take a chance with ordinary clothes—when you can get Clothcraft with the guaranty—for the same or less.
